

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention includes deposition apparatuses having reflectors with rugged reflective surfaces configured to disperse light reflected therefrom, and/or having dispersers between lamps and a substrate. The invention also includes optical methods for utilization within a deposition apparatus for assessing the alignment of a substrate within the apparatus and/or for assessing the thickness of a layer of material deposited within the apparatus.